Roppongi Art Night 2019: An art festival staged across Roppongi

An all-night experience showcasing the indescribable power of art to move and delight
Our main artist this year is
Choi Jeong Hwa, one of the biggest names in Contemporary Asian Art!

A giant red ball? In Roppongi? RedBall Project coming to Japan for the first time!

From May 25 (Sat) to 26 (Sun), 2019, Tokyo's Roppongi district will become the stage of Roppongi Art Night 2019, a one-night-only event organized by the Roppongi Art Night Executive Committee.

Works of diverse artistic disciplines – contemporary art, design, music, video, performance – will appear all over town, and give audience an extraordinary experience. This marks the tenth installment of Roppongi Art Night, which was first held in March 2009. Previous installments have featured some of the most important names in contemporary Japanese art, including Kenji Yanobe, Yayoi Kusama, Mika Ninagawa, and Kohei Nawa. Roppongi Art Night continues to evolve with every installment as Tokyo's premier celebration of art.

This year's theme is "Night Journey, Daydream". The key visual has been designed by groovisions, a design studio that works in graphic design, motion graphics, and numerous other fields.

Roppongi Art Night 2019 Main visual

For our main artist this year, we invite Choi Jeong Hwa – our first overseas headliner - whose dazzling and joyous art is sure to make the night a dreamlike event. As shown by the success of his national-scale undertaking at the Seoul Olympic Stadium, Choi has sought throughout his career to show that art and culture are for everyone to enjoy, not just the privileged few. His colorful artistic world will be awaiting your visit.

Roppongi Art Night will feature many other installations and performances that will be staged all across the Roppongi area. More artists and programs will be announced in the run-up to the event, so stay tuned!

Roppongi Art Night 2019 Theme: "Night Journey, Daydream"

Contemporary art, performances, video works, music – various kinds of art can be found scattered around the streets of Roppongi. So why not set out on a one-night journey through art? The artworks adorn the city, creating a timeless, out-of-this-world experience. What dreams await you at the end of this journey? There are a red ball popping up in the district, a giant balloon, a glowing bird, and a floating stone – a total of some 50 installations and performances from around the world, together comprising the experience that is "Night Journey, Daydream".

Choi will present installation works that will connect Roppongi Hills Arena, Tokyo Midtown, and the National Art Center, Tokyo.

His Fruit Tree – a colorful balloon sculpture composed of fruits and vegetables – will be displayed in the Roppongi Hills Arena, turning the venue, which will be hosting a variety of events over the festival, into a vibrant space reminiscent of a banquet hall.

■ Message from Choi Jeong Hwa:

HAPPY TOGETHER

Everything shines.

Some things shine quietly.

Others shine like stars.

Useless but beautiful things too.

I shine, you shine, cats and old vessels too.

Everything that fills the world dazzles us simply through their existence.

You and I gather and weave those lights together,

So that we can create a bigger and more radiant light.

Not only does art belong to artists,

But rather, art is like capillaries that are seeped into the tissues of our daily life.

Insignificant everyday objects: one fruit, one plate

It is through the existence and expansion of a greater cosmos inherent in each of these objects that we shall encounter with one another.

During this night in Roppongi,

I wish that you would encounter the transient moment,

In which light, color, air, and energy will vibrate with life.

 Choi Jeong Hwa was born 1961 in Seoul, South Korea, where he is also based today. Besides representing South Korea at Venice Biennale 2005, he has participated in art festivals worldwide, including at Liverpool, Sydney, Taiwan, and Lyon. He also served as art director on the opening and closing ceremonies of the 2018 Winter Paralympics in Pyeong Chang, and continues to broaden his creative horizons.

Pre-Program | RedBall Project

The RedBall Project will be hitting the streets of Roppongi as one of Roppongi Art Night's pre-festival programs* this year. A brainchild of American artist Kurt Perschke, the RedBall Project has been to 30 cities across the globe to date, and this is its first appearance in Japan.

Every day from May 20, five days before the main festival kicks off, a 4.5-meter red ball will pop up in different locations in the Roppongi area to the delight of city-goers. Wait to find out where the ball will appear!

Further details will be available on our website.

*Pre-Program: an art program exhibited or installed prior to the opening of Roppongi Art Night 2019.

Appendix: Key visual design by groovisions

(Profile)

The design studio groovisions was founded in Kyoto in 1993, and has been based in Tokyo since 1997. Though focused primarily on graphic design and video production, the studio is involved in diverse fields including music, publishing, interior design, fashion and web content, as well as having its own product line. Outside Japan, it has also participated in numerous fine art exhibitions. As exemplified by its design-your-own "chappie" characters, which have been used by businesses and schools as mascots, groovisions has been gaining increasing attention for its ventures that are not limited to one genre. <http://groovisions.com/>
